

Guide for the mandatory references

Including references with your university application can significantly enhance your candidacy, particularly in competitive admission processes. For the BioMex program they are mandatory. Therefore please upload a document containing 2 or 3 contact addresses of referees.

Here's why:

- 1. Personal Insight: References provide the admissions committee with a personal view of your capabilities beyond grades and test scores. It offers insights into your character, work ethic, and contributions to your community or previous institutions.
- 2. Professional Endorsement: When a respected professor or professional in your field vouches for your abilities and potential, it adds credibility to your application. This endorsement can be particularly persuasive if the recommender has a notable reputation in the academic or professional world.
- 3. Highlight Unique Qualities: Recommenders can highlight qualities that may not be immediately apparent in the rest of your application, such as leadership skills, resilience, or a commitment to your field of study. These personal attributes can make a significant difference in how your application is perceived.

It is mandatory to provide at least 2, preferably 3, references from professors/doctors who can attest to your suitability and special talent, ultimately facilitating your participation in this program. The contact details (phone number, email-address) of the referees must be provided.

No participation in the program is possible without these references!
